Biographies appear on the website with each animal (The goal is to give people information about the animal and encourage people to adopt an animal that is a good match for their family). Please write a brief biography for Rocky. Name: Rocky Age: 6 months Breed: Labrador Retriever mix Size: Extra Large Reason for Turn In: Too rough with children and chews when left alone.

Below is a biography for Rocky. Is it a good biography for him? Please explain your reasons.

Rocky is a great dog for any family who is willing to crate train him. He is very playful and is the perfect first pet. Come adopt him right now!!!!

How would you handle the following: You have called the reporter of a lost cat. She begins to cry and tell you about how much she loves and misses her cat.

You have called a finder and they tell you that they turned the dog in to us and now they are upset because our staff told him of our policy that if the owner did not claim the dog it would be put to sleep because it looked like it is part pit bull.

A person gets out of their car and explains that they have to take both their very nervous big dog and cat into the vet's office. They ask you if you will please walk their dog while they carry the cat.

Two people come out of the shelter walking your favorite breed of dog. They are angry that they were told the dog would be put to sleep if left at the shelter because it tried to bite their child.

Do you:

- a. Ask if you can pet the dog to see if he likes you and then ask them to wait while you call your parents to see if you can take the dog.
- b. Ignore their comments and keep yourself a safe distance from the dog.
- c. Tell them to take it to another shelter and leave the part out about the bite.

Please sign below. You will be contacted for an interview if your responses suggest a good match. You may learn more about us at www.whspets.org and more about other volunteer opportunities in the area by doing a shelter and rescue search at www.Petfinder.com. –Kelly VanValkenburgh, Director of Volunteers
